IOSH MANAGING SAFELY COURSE

I recently attended the above course which was organised by Health & Safety Works.

The course covered all the objectives in detail and provided me with a sound knowledge and insight into the application of health & safety requirements at work, both from a legislative and practical point of view. It has greatly assisted in the running of a busy Hall in London and has enabled us to comply fully with health & safety requirements.

Students were provided with up to date and informative literature that was of great benefit. The course instructor, Mr David Oates, was knowledgeable and professional throughout and is an outstanding instructor. He kept control of the class and made the learning process interesting as well as informative, often relating actual events to modules presented to the students in order to better understand the subject.

I would thoroughly recommend Health & Safety Works to any organisation who finds it necessary to have their staff trained in this important area of the workplace.
